

Tips to Informal Caregivers on Giving Personal Care

To Give a Back Rub

Back rubs increase circulation, relax the person and increase the person's comfort.

Procedure:

- Explain what will be done.
- Face the head of the bed with the outer foot slightly forward and the knee slightly flexed so that you can rock back and forth as pressure is applied.
- Place the person on abdomen.
- Put lotion or cream in hands to warm and then apply to the person's back.
- Apply pressure with palms of both hands, beginning at the lower back and moving up toward the shoulder, using long, firm, but gentle strokes, sweeping upward, outward and downward.
- Note bony areas and massage gently around them.
